Kansas receipts for November show steady economic growth

TOPEKA – The Kansas economy continued its steady growth in November with receipts coming in $2.5 million more than projections on Wednesday.

State sales tax grew about 4 percent to $172 million or $2.4 million more than estimates. That is $19.2 million more than the state collected in November 2010. However, the state paid $10 million in refunds in 2010.

“While our state continues to show signs of the economy growing at a steady pace, we still must be careful not to disrupt the positive trends we’ve see these last several months,” said Revenue Secretary Nick Jordan.

The state collected $406 million in November, which was 0.6 percent more than anticipated and $22 million more than what was collected in November 2010.
